

Baby Audio acquires Denise Audio

On September 1st, 2023 Baby Audio Inc. acquired all assets from the previous owners of Denise Audio. The Denise Audio plugins have some notable DSP inside them – while needing a little bit of improvement in other areas according to Baby Audio. Baby Audio currently working on a full revamp of their catalog.

Denise Audio will remain separate from Baby Audio and they have no plans of externally uniting the two brands. However, operating a second plugin company will give their team more options internally – since an additional product outlet means they can hire more developers and engage in more experimental R&D work. If you're a Baby Audio user, all this will make no difference to you.
